Commission changes complexion

By MICHAEL J. FLYNN

Recent changes in the Pass Christian Planning Commission may affect the final outcome of the continuing Parc Christian subdivision controversy.

Changes in the board's membership, caused by the expiration of some members' terms, will apparently cause a shift in the voting pattern regarding the beach front development.

Those members affected include ousted member Phil Ambler who was not reappointed, new chairman Bernard Giadosich who replaced George Watson in the chair, and new member Mrs. William Howard who was appointed by the board of aldermen to replace Ambler.

The recent shakeup in the commission, caused by the expiration of three members' terms in November conveniently coincided with division among the commission over the Parc Christian proposal.

The terms of members Phil Ambler, Mrs. William Matkin and Edward Reid expired in November. Mrs. Matkin and Ambler voted against the subdivision along with Giadosich at the Feb. 2 meeting of the commission.

The resulting vote was 3-1-1 with Kenneth Wittmann voting for and Thomas Spencer abstaining. (Edward Reid was not present).

Tonight, however, when the Planning Commission meets to consider the most recent proposal, the proponents of Parc Christian should have little trouble getting the commission's OK.

Even considering commission member Mrs. William Matkin still lines up against the subdivision, Giadosich's vote will be forfeited as chairman.

On the other side, Watson has stated he will vote to accept the proposal if it does not differ substantially from the original proposal and changes suggested by the developers at the recent council meeting. Wittmann remains undecided, but voted to accept the proposal last time. Spencer and Mrs. Howard also remain undecided, with Spencer abstaining at the last vote. Reid is expected to be absent again.

The best that opponents of the development could hope for then under the present circumstances is a 3-2 vote but this remains highly unlikely

Board ponders vacancies

HNC struggles under administrative worries

By CAROLE LANGE

The necessity of hiring a principal for Hancock North Central High School was stressed at Monday's meeting of the school board with the announcement of the immediate resignation of Jerry C. Mullins, the school's assistant principal.

Mullins said in a letter that the board's failure to consider him for the principal's post which was vacated in January, and advice from his physician not to continue his duties as assistant principal led him to the decision.

Board president Monvel Cuevas said Mullins' allegation that he was not considered for principal was untrue "because all employees in our school system are considered for promotion."

E.E. Breland, former assistant superintendent, has been serving in the position on a temporary basis. Board member Tommy Shaw said a principal must be hired as soon as possible because Breland cannot remain in the position after March 31.

Breland, who was brought out of retirement to assume the post, has already served for 60 consecutive school days, the maximum according to the state's retirement law.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph said he was conducting interviews and planned to present a recommendation to the board soon. He said Harlin Hill, assistant superintendent, would assist Breland several days a week until either a principal or assistant principal was hired.

Two policies pertaining to organization and structure of the new board were tabled for the third consecutive meeting.

Board member Johnny Banks objected because he said the policies would "take power from the board and give it to the superintendent."

Shaw suggested that the board "do away with these ethics" and follow the Mississippi Code Book.

The board also failed to act on a recommendation by Randolph to hire an adult to ride the school bus from Pearlman to Hancock North Central.

Randolph said the person would be hired as a "protective measure" because there have been several minor instances of "racial disturbance."

No action was taken because the board could not agree on whether the person hired should have the authority to deal with students involved, whether it is the bus driver's responsibility to maintain order on the bus, or whether the offending students should be expelled.

In other business, the board approved a one year option on four lots of 16th section land, to Southern Pacific Communications.

Hired Albert Parker as custodian in the superintendent's office and Paul Watson as maintenance man at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School.

Accepted a bid of $165 for a used pick-up truck and a bid of $2,386 from the Hub Refrigeration and Fixture Co. for an oven at Hancock North Central.

Released five students from the district to attend schools in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

Authorized Randolph to attend a meeting on curriculum and supervision in Jackson, Feb. 27.

Wagon train arrives amidst eager faces

By JAKE JACOB

The Bicentennial Wagon Train rolled into Mississippi right on schedule yesterday, crossing the state line at East Pearl River precisely at 10 a.m.

Joined at that location by Magnolia State outriders, the train, headed by a color guard from the Pelican State, wound its way to Oak Harbor before a waiting crowd of public officials, schoolchildren, horsemen, and local residents.

Secretary of State Heber Ladner present for the occasion from Jackson delivered greetings from the state capitol.

Ladner, chairman of the state bicentennial commission, was accompanied by Perry Snyder, director of the commission, and Ken Oilschlager of the State Agricultural Commission. Ladner extended apologies to the crowd from Lieutenant Governor Evelyn Gandy and Governor Cliff Finch as well as Agriculture Commissioner Jim Ross who were invited but unable to attend the ceremonies.

Speaking of the character and faith held by the pioneers who travelled across America in their covered wagons to settle the outer most parts of a then wilderness country, Ladner reminded the crowd that the early pioneers were often sustained merely by faith in themselves, faith in their neighbors and faith in God.

"I implore you to go back to the character exemplified by the people who rode these Prairie Schooners to the West," said Ladner.

The audience applauded loudly when Ladner called for a cleanup in American "environmentally, physically, socially, and spiritually."

"If what is happening daily in America is symbolic of her destiny then the nation is lost," Ladner told those assembled.

Ladner called for his audience to turn the nation around, back to a life filled with the simple things evident in the pioneer way of life.

After Ladner's address, Snyder displayed to the crowd an antiquated chest to be utilized to carry the Mississippi pledges to Valley Forge, site of General George Washington's campsite. The pledges, said Snyder, will be sealed and stored to be opened 100 years later.

Prior to the speaker's address Louisiana Wagon Master Gary Wimberly transferred the national bicentennial flag to his Mississippi counterpart, Tom Watts. Following this exchange he saddled Watt's horse as an expression of national and interstate friendship.

Other state officials associated with the wagon train pilgrimage who were present Wednesday included Dr. James Nelson, president of the Mississippi Horse Council and a host of Hancock County officials.

Included from the county was Beat Five Supervisor James Travica, who is also acting as Hancock wagon master while the train is camped here.

Others present were board president Alton Kellar, supervisor Oscar Peterson, Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver, Waveland Mayor John Longo, Pass Christian Mayor Steve Sauder, Bay Commissioners Lucien Kidd and Clarence Ladner, Hancock Sheriff Sylvan Ladner and Chancery Clerk John Rutherford.

The following events will be presented at the Hancock County Fairgrounds during the Bicentennial Wagon Train's encampment in Bay St. Louis.

Ring out, America!

"The church bells were ringing for America, its hopes, dreams, and 200th birthday."

These were the words of Louisiana Wagon Master Gary Wimberly, yesterday, when speaking of his experience driving his state's Bicentennial wagon from Shreveport, La., to Oak Harbor, Miss.

Wimberly, shortly after introducing his wife, Tina, said that as they were leaving town after town in Louisiana, the church bells rang out.

"We knew they were pealing for us, for the ideals we carry with us in the wagon train, and for our nation, America."

"It was a very moving experience, and one I would urge every community to adopt," the wagon master said.

Parc Christian battle continues behind the scenes

By MICHAEL J. FLYNN

Recent changes in the Pass Christian Planning Commission may affect the final outcome of the continuing Parc Christian subdivision controversy.

Changes in the board's membership, caused by the expiration of some members' terms, will apparently cause a shift in the voting pattern regarding the beach front development.

The best that opponents of the development could hope for then under the present circumstances is a 3-2 vote but this remains highly unlikely under the board's present makeup. The worse that could befall the opponents is a 4-1 vote in favor of accepting the development.

There are several other combinations that could result but all would serve the same purpose. Even with Spencer and Howard abstaining, the proponents would still have a 2-1 advantage on the board.

Insight/ background report

Thursday night's vote by the Planning Commission remains little more than a straw vote in reality since the final acceptance or rejection of the development rests with the full board of aldermen.

And that group of five men remain a body of mystery, with no member coming out publicly either in favor or opposition to the Parc Christian development.

Ambler apparently feels he was replaced because of his opposition to the Parc Christian development.

The mayor and those in favor of this project have a perfect right to try to get this thing through. The beach front community also has the right to oppose their efforts, Ambler said this week. "I just regret that this matter has become a personal matter for many of those involved."

Mayor Steve Sauder maintains that Ambler was replaced because of excessive absenteeism, but also said this was not his action, but rather that of the board of aldermen.

Trusty takes out trash then makes fast getaway

The search continues for a 19-year-old trusty who escaped from Hancock County Jail Sunday night.

According to Sheriff Sylvan Ladner, Floyd Hoda Jr., who was convicted of burglary during the January term of circuit court and sentenced to one year in jail, asked permission to empty the trash and was discovered missing about 15 minutes later.

When last seen, Hoda was wearing a denim jacket and blue jeans. He is described as having brown hair and brown eyes, weighs 165 pounds and is six feet tall.

Persons knowing of the escapee's whereabouts are asked to contact the sheriff's office immediately.

A drug raid in the Flat Top community Feb. 19 resulted in the arrest of two persons, according to Ronnie Peterson, investigator.

Acting on a tip from an informant, Peterson said he and deputies Paul Bernard and Leo Woods and Constable Shorley Nacaise, found approximately 30 marijuana plants growing at a Flat Top residence.

Arrested for possession of marijuana, growing and cultivating the drug, and possession of paraphernalia were Donald Mitchell, and Steven Pearson, both 20.

Paraphernalia found in the search included various types of water pipes and marijuana seeds.

Peterson said both men have been released on $1,000 bond with a hearing scheduled tonight before Justice of the Peace Horatio Frierson.

Gex named chairman of March 13 Walkathon

Joseph W. Gex has been named chairman of the second annual March of Dimes Walkathon, according to Mrs. Theo Tudury, Hancock County MOD chairman.

Thefts continue unchecked

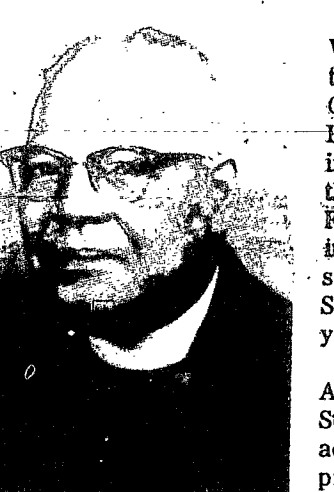

Five apparently unrelated thefts occurred in the city within three days last week, according to Police Chief Billy Carbonette.

In the first incident, Carbonette said four chrome wire hubcaps were stolen from a car belonging to a Tennessee resident. The theft occurred Feb. 20.

On Feb. 21, three local youths stole $3 worth of gasoline from the self-service pump at the Old Spanish Trail Supermarket.

Rev. Francis G. Wade

The Rev. Francis G. Wade, S.V.D., a member of the first class of St. Augustine's Seminary, died Feb. 22 at Hancock General Hospital after a brief illness.

REV. FRANCIS WADE

The 12-mile walkathon, sponsored by WPUP, will be held March 13. The hike will begin at the Bay Bridge and stop at check points on Nicholson Ave. and at Buchanan State Park before returning to the starting point.

"Everyone will be walking for those children born with crippling birth defects," Gex said, adding "Persons who can't pound the pavement are urged to sponsor a hiker."

Both individuals and organizations may participate in the walkathon. Gex explained that each walker gets sponsors to pledge, a contribution for each mile walked.

Awards will be presented to the high school and junior high student collecting the most money, to the adult collecting the most money, and to the oldest person who walks the full 12 miles. Every walker will receive a certificate showing his participation.

The chairman said persons under 11 must be accompanied by an adult. Also said Official Walkathon cars will travel with the hikers to return any persons unable to walk the full distance.

Gex said of the 3,400 babies born in Mississippi each year with serious defects, more than 1,200 die before their first birthday. He said MOD supports a Birth Defects Center at the University Medical Center in Jackson where teams of specialists are researching causes, prevention, and correction of birth defects.

Persons wishing more information about the walkathon can contact Gex at 467-6515.

All of the robberies are under investigation according to Carbonette.

Carbonette said a male with long blonde hair was attempting to steal a CB radio from a truck belonging to a Harrison County resident when he was spotted by a pedestrian. The truck was parked at the VFW Home. Investigating the incident which occurred Feb. 19 were Assistant Chief Douglas Williams, and Ptn. Emmett Ellis and Gregory Richardson.

An accident Feb. 22 resulted in no injuries and slight damage to both cars involved. Carbonette said the accident occurred when Herron Turnipseed tried to avoid a car which ran a stop sign and hit a parked car belonging to Ms. Mary Furnick. Ptn. Ellis and Alphonse Sheppard investigated.

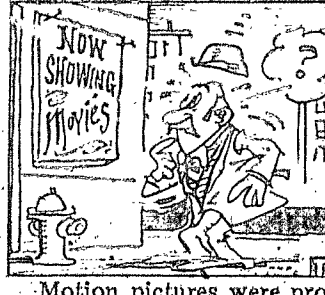

Friends may call tonight at Divine Word Seminary Chapel at 7. A concelebrated Mass will be held on Friday, Feb. 27 at 10:30 a.m. in the Seminary Chapel.

He joined the Society of the Atonement Friars and became a Brother. In that community, because seminarians in the United States did not accept black youths at that time.

Mental Health Center opens halfway house

A comprehensive resident halfway house for alcoholics is being opened in Gulfport, according to Dr. Kinsey Stewart, director of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center.

The facility, which can accommodate as many as 24 patients, is being funded by matching federal and state grants.

The acceptance of the grant will provide approximately $149,000 per year to the Coast Mental Health Center to operate the facility. State funds are being provided under Title XX of the Mississippi Department of Public Welfare.

The facility, which will be called Hospitality House, Inc., is located at the LaPetite Village at 2800 19th Avenue in Gulfport.

Stewart said that Winford Langevin had been hired as house director and Nola Cummings as assistant house director. James Whitson has been appointed mental health counselor for the facility.

In addition, Stewart said, two additional personnel slots were being provided for doctoral level internships. One of the internships, Stewart said, will be from the Department of Counseling and Guidance at the University of Southern Mississippi with the second from the Department of Clinical Psychology from the University of Mississippi.

The Halfway House program will admit persons residing in Region XIII who exhibit a primary addiction to, or increasing dependence on, alcohol, and who are determined eligible by the county department of public welfare. The persons must have the ability to understand and be willing to comply with the house rules and philosophies, Stewart said. These persons must, additionally, be classified as adults as defined by the State of Mississippi, and physically and mentally capable of participating in the program, added Stewart.

The basic goals of the facility Stewart said are: (1) achieve or maintain economic self support, (2) achieve or maintain self sufficiency, (3) prevention of institutional care by providing for community based care.

Patients will submit to a program ranging from a minimum of six weeks to a maximum of six months. The facility will serve both men and women. Referrals from other agencies should be directed to Whitson at 863-1132 or 863-4782.

State grants available for bicentennial

March 15 has been set as the deadline for the receipt of applications for Bicentennial matching grants.

Bicentennial Director Perry A. Snyder announced today that Mississippi will receive $30,000 in matching funds from the National Bicentennial Administration. The Bicentennial Commission of Mississippi will then subgrant this $30,000 to governmental entities and non-profit groups for worthy projects, programs, and events. The Commission has set $5,000 as the maximum for any one grant.

"The goal of the matching grant program," Snyder explained, "is to help local groups realize their goals for the Bicentennial." Over the course of the past two years, the Commission has made nearly 100 grants for a variety of Bicentennial undertakings.

Persons interested in information about the grant program are encouraged to write the Bicentennial Commission at P. O. Box 571 in Jackson.

R. A. Robinson named Layman of the Year

R.A. Robinson of First Missionary Baptist Church, Bay St. Louis, has been named Layman of the Year by the church's Gulf Coast District Brotherhood.

A letter of qualification and suitability was forwarded in January of this year from the First Missionary Baptist Brotherhood, and signed by Vice President Howard A. Sheppard, and Secretary Clarence Sheppard. The letter, approved and endorsed by the church, was also signed by Rev. Lawrence Collins, Sr., pastor, and P.M. Lewis, clerk.

Robinson gained the award in competition against his peers from across the Gulf Coast area. To commemorate the honor, he was presented a trophy in special services, at

legislation

Stennis spoke in opposition to a bill establishing eight months of daylight saving time and four months of standard time for an additional two years. If passed, the bill would trigger daylight saving time on March 7. Stennis has repeatedly advocated returning to the provisions of the Uniform Time Act of 1966 which provides six months of standard time and six months of daylight saving time.

"There is no reason to continue to experiment with limiting standard time to four months a year," Stennis said, "when we know that six months of standard time and six months of daylight saving time is a tested and proven system." He pointed out that the committee report recommending the 8-4 proposal states that "conclusive support is not demonstrated."

Senator John C. Stennis expressed opposition to what he termed further experimentation with two additional months of daylight saving time because of the "adverse effects on the public."

Mrs. Helen Duchess, first district president of the VFW Auxiliary, Department of Mississippi, made her official visit during the February meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post 5931, Pass Christian.

Mrs. Duchess, Ocean Springs, spoke briefly about the effectiveness of the membership's work.

At present, many members are assisting in the king's race for the St. Paul Carnival Association while others are busy preparing a float to be entered in the Pass Christian Mardi Gras parade.

Plans are also being made to participate in the Earth Day Clean-Up sponsored by the garden club and also the annual pilgrimage.

Mrs. Norma Bonney,

president, reported that the special flag program presented to the Coast Municipal Association during their recent dinner was very well received.

Prior to the meeting, a seafood supper was held for members and guests at $1.25 per plate. All proceeds went to help defray hospital expenses of a deceased veteran's wife.

Are you concerned about electric energy and how it affects the environment?

The 4-H Electric Program is designed to explain the basic principles and theories of electricity; and safe practices and procedures for using it.

Youth in Hancock County are invited to participate in the 4-H Electric Project, Feb. 26, at 7:30 p.m. At that time a meeting at Coast Electric Power Association's main office building will be held to organize an Electric Project Club. All youth between the ages of nine and 19 are encouraged to participate.

Nominations received for scholar athletes

Six scholar athletes from the Gulf Coast area will be honored at the annual banquet of the Hall of Fame and National Football Foundation's Gulf Coast chapter at the Biloxi Hilton Hotel at 7:30 p.m. April 1.

Nominations from high schools in the six county area have been arriving at a rapid pace and a total of 20 nominations have already been received.

The first four nominees are as follows:

Albert L. Snow, a three year letterman at running back from the Long Beach Bears. Snow carried a 96.1 scholastic average through his junior year in high school.

Randy J. Johnson, a three year letterman at guard and linebacker from d'Iberville High School. He carries a 96 grade average.

Gary DeBruin, a two year offensive and defensive tackle with the St. Martin High Yellow Jackets who carries a 3.2 average on a 4.0 system.

Donald N. Ainsworth, a three year letterman at linebacker with the Stone High Tomcats. Ainsworth carried an 87.7 grade average.

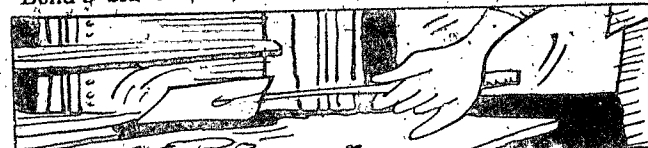

The Hall of Fame selection committee will meet in the near future to consider all nominations and select the six scholar athletes who will be recognized at the annual banquet.

Bond Paving awarded hospitality road contract

Bond Paving Co. of Gulfport was awarded the bid Tuesday for construction of an access road and driveway to the proposed state hospitality station at I-10 and U.S. Highway 607.

Bond's bid of $894,453 was the lowest of four bids submitted, although it was 6.9 percent over the engineer's cost estimate of $836,482.

Construction is expected to begin within 60 days with completion scheduled in July, 1977.

Enabling laws, criteria open consolidation's doors

The American Association of School Administrators' (AASA) Commission on School District Organization in 1953 established nine criteria of school district adequacy.

Contrary to some of the objections raised by our editorial on school consolidation, our comment is based on the intent of these criteria.

In review, the AASA group, while acknowledging the variances between sparsely populated rural areas, rated the effectiveness of existing school districts on the following basis: educational program, pupil population, financial resources, educational leadership provisions, instructional personnel, use of personnel, school plant provisions, framework for operations, and provisions for community participation.

It has however been demonstrated that consolidation efforts initiated by local identities have achieved little, in most cases, until the state imposed mandatory legislation.

Consolidation seems to be especially favored in the formation of intermediate units of education that permit a student enrollment of between 10 to 12,000 - grades one through 12. This count seemingly being considered the preferred minimum for a complete provision of adequate units of school administration.

Of course, lesser totals permit a scaled institution of the intermediate unit, and it should be understood that in any undertaken consolidation in Hancock County, all portions of existing structures inside the systems will be included and brought into full utilization. The governing board will be selected from all areas of the county.

In other words, to properly educate students and provide adequate financing to pay for this education within reason, the bigger school unit provides a far better, and more equal, opportunity for all concerned.

Some of the barriers to consolidation in rural areas include persistence in the idea of "home rule," the fact that many people simply do not realize that the quality of the educational program in their district is inferior; and different group interests.

The Mississippi State Department of Education advises that consolidation of school systems is permissible under the provisions of the Mississippi State Code (1972), Sections 37-7103, and 37-7605, subject to such application gaining the approval of the State Educational Finance Commission.

These laws have already been invoked to advantage in the formation of several consolidated districts, such as the Natchez-Adams School District, and that of Granada County.

If these laws, for some reason, should prove inadequate for Hancock County, then legislative enactment can be promptly acquired through the introduction of a local and private bill. (J-J)

KERSHNER'S COMMENTARY

By Dr. Howard E. Kershner

Pension-Juggling Penalties

The Wall Street Journal, November 24, 1975, notes that Detroit's contribution this year to the police and fire retirement fund will equal 55% of those workers' wages. Nevertheless, the city still has an estimated liability to city employees amounting to over $1 billion, compared with only $275 million ten years ago.

New York contributes 29% of payroll to the pension fund, but still has $6 billion of unfunded liability.

The cost of pensions has gotten out of hand because increased pensions have been granted without regard to the fact that the pensioners could grant without paying in advance of the time when indefinite time in the future.

That time has now come for many cities and the funds are not available. The responsibility for the officials contracting such obligations is thus made evident.

Of course, the basic problem is a widening gap between the cost of the pension and the contribution. The mathematics of the pension system are such that the cost of the pension is always greater than the contribution. For twenty years the pensioners have been paid more than they have contributed, and the gap has widened.

The pensioners have been paid more than they have contributed, and the gap has widened. The pensioners have been paid more than they have contributed, and the gap has widened.

The pensioners have been paid more than they have contributed, and the gap has widened. The pensioners have been paid more than they have contributed, and the gap has widened.

This is the history that we are destined to repeat if we refuse or are unable to read the handwriting on the wall.

ANSWER: Abide by the moral law. Learn to live within our means.

"There's Majesty in Simplicity"

Hi, Dad!

I miss you. It's my birthday next Saturday.

Billy Brown got his bike yesterday. He and the other boys took a ride to the forest preserve. I did not go 'cause I haven't got my bike yet.

Mother and me went downtown today. We saw a swell bike at Sears. You can get it for $25. It's a dandy.

So long, Dad. We love you.

Junior got his bike!

Junior

Recently one of my youngsters wrote this note to a company:

"Two months ago I sent two dollars for a Snoopy Sweatshirt. When will I get it?"

It came, pronto; and included an apology from the company president!

Simplicity. In writing and speech. That's how our youngsters communicate. Adults can, and should, learn from them.

Children are probably the world's greatest practitioners of simple from-the-heart words. They're direct, honest, and concise. We can profit by studying their refreshingly simple style.

Here's another easy-to-understand and poignant message from a youngster.

"Dear God:

"If I could read all the part where all the Jews went through where the water was and got away. Keep up the good work. I am Jewish!"

Love,
Paula"

How do you keep things simple?

You write at it now and constantly. You keep asking yourself: "How can I simplify this?"

"There's majesty in simplicity," said Shakespeare.

For most of us, "This over-simplifies," let me quickly respond:

"The penman. But you. So over-complicate!"

A business person put this message to the milkman:

"Please leave a gallon of milk, 1 cream, 1 cottage cheese, take empties!"

Next week's business people would write:

"In accordance with our usual procedure, I should like to order the following:

"One 1-gallon container, heavy-duty, for your attention and removal, three 1-pint containers, for your attention and delivery."

"That's what I want. Let's stop it!"

CONGRESSIONAL ATTENTION

Congress, someone once said, is like a mule. You have to get its attention before you can get it to move.

Getting the attention of Congress, however, isn't always as easy as getting the attention of a mule. It often takes adversity, a catastrophe, to get the ball rolling in the House or in the Senate.

Such was the case with four pieces of legislation I recently cosponsored in the House. The measures were prompted by the death of a CIA agent, the tragic bombing of LaGuardia Airport in New York City, the plight of fishermen, and the recession in the homebuilding industry.

The first measure would prohibit the improper identification of "any individual as one who at any time has been or is presently engaged in ... intelligence operations." Those who insist on revealing the names of agents could expect up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

It's a rather simple matter as far as I'm concerned. American intelligence agents performing the job they were recruited to perform should be able to count on protection from their federal government.

"The bill should not raise serious First Amendment objections because no prior restraint on publishing is involved," one of my colleagues pointed out.

"It works very much like a libel law. Anyone is free to publish anything he wants, but he can be subsequently prosecuted if that publication violates the rights of someone else."

Another bill I cosponsored recently, H. R. 11386, would reinstate the federal death penalty for anyone convicted of a bombing which results in the death of any person. If we had such a law already on the books, maybe those fanatics who bombed LaGuardia would have had second thoughts before they planted such a bomb.

Congress passed a similar bill in 1970, but it was struck down in 1972 by the Supreme Court. Congress, to its credit, came right back and reinstated the death penalty for aircraft hijacking, and I think we need to do the same for the bombing statute.

Terrorist bombings represent a frightening trend. Those who are responsible should be put on notice that, if innocent people die as a result of bombings, there can be a death sentence waiting for them also.

Another bill I recently cosponsored would provide some tax relief for those fishermen who are paid with a portion of the catch rather than with wages. Basically, the bill would provide for such a fisherman to be treated as self-employed, a tax break that would allow him to enjoy the benefits of the Social Security Act among other things.

I've always been very much aware of the special problems small fishermen face with regard to taxation. This type legislation could be very helpful in providing some relief.

Of interest to small homebuilders in South Mississippi is H. R. 10633, which I cosponsored a few weeks ago. It would help the nation's small businessman homebuilder to qualify for Small Business Administration financial assistance, something he currently is not allowed to do.

The homebuilding industry has suffered through its longest building recession which resulted in a record number of construction firm bankruptcies. If SBA assistance had been available, many small builders might have had a fighting chance to survive.

Since these four bills have only recently been introduced in the House, they have not seen much action yet. I plan to actively follow them as they wind their way along the legislative road.

Lott names

essay judges

Five educators representing the institutions of higher learning in Mississippi's Fifth Congressional District will serve as judges for Congressman Trent Lott's Bicentennial Essay Contest.

High school seniors throughout the 12-county district have submitted essays based on the theme "Why the Bicentennial Is Important to America." The panel of judges will reveal a winner and two alternates on or before April 1.

Members of the judging panel are: Dr. Frank O'Hare, chairman of the Department of English at the University of Southern Mississippi; Walter L. Lowe, chairman of the Department of Social Science at Pearl River Junior College; R. Jack Rogers, associate professor of history and political science at William Carey College; Lawrence Kryter, chairman of the Division of Humanities at Jones Junior College; and Dr. Woodley Lott, chairman of the Language Arts Department at the Perkinston Campus of Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College.

to the Editor

Editor, Sea Coast Echo,
Eve McDonald is correct in her emotional and dynamic appeal to stimulate action to help our senior citizens, marginal income peoples, and by extension, the middle class citizens, in combating monopolistically high telephone and power bills. (Feb. 12, 1976, edition)

It's a well known fact in economics that such utilities, by their very nature, as monopolies will charge all the market will take, regardless of state utility regulations, Commissions and the courts. They have the power (no pun intended) and their word is absolute, and the public interest be damned.

Mrs. McDonald's suggestion to demand, demand, might get minimal attention and less action. It is a beginning, and I would suggest modestly, that we all can do more: write to the Attorney General of the U. S. the Hon. Edward Levi, suggesting anti-trust action under the Sherman Act, against the Southern Co., parent of the Mississippi Power Co., and the Alabama and Georgia Power Companies.

Then, write your Congressman, Hon. Trent Lott, and Senators John Stennis and Eastland, requesting a Congressional investigation into the Rural Electrification Administration, parent of the Coast Electric Power Co.

We want relief NOW, not after the election.

Cordially,
J. Ashton-Greene
Montebella Road,
Pass Christian, Ms.

Editor, Sea Coast Echo,

Where are our Public Service Commissioners? The telephone rates go up and A.T.&T. raises their common stock dividend to the highest in their history.

Mississippi Power Co. raise their rates and want more. They belong to a conglomerate of power companies and their common stock is paying 9 percent and they want another raise.

The biggest rip-off in the whole world is the House of Representatives up there in Washington. I wish they would appoint a committee to investigate why my putts don't fall in the hole when I play golf. I can tell you now what the findings will be—no concrete evidence and it only took them two months. Trent Lott, don't get made at me because I like you. All I mean by this tirade is that if they abolished the House of Representatives, we would still have quite a crew of law-makers.

Abolish Lobbyist! Think of all the money the special interest groups would save and maybe we get better voting, at least put a tax on the surplus Union Funds. Poor George Meany!!

Liberty tree planting

Members of the W Club at Waveland Elementary School were the first recipients of 100 Liberty trees distributed throughout the area by the Bay-Waveland Garden Club this week. Preparing to place the trees on the school grounds are, from left, Val Goetz, Mrs. William Gaudet, Karen Peterson, and Mrs. Dan Russell Jr. Garden Club civic development chairman.

Litter strewn lots.

Concern emerges over vandalism, theft at first community involvement meeting.

Editor's note: Mayor Warren Carver said just before press time that positive action had been taken in connection with the school crossing at Bay Junior High School. Carver said the city had offered to buy uniforms to reestablish a school safety patrol at the school.

Other topics discussed at the meeting were drainage, vandalism and theft, the condition of derelict property and the unsanitary conditions that exist behind some area shopping centers. School crossing safety was also an item of concern for many of those present.

The city maintains some 80 or more miles of drainage ditches and, Carver acknowledged, some problems exist. Carver said he was interested in solving these problems and urged residents with problems too "pick up that phone and call."

Insurance men Garland Belote and Ames Kergosien voiced their concern about the recent increase in vandalism and theft, especially by juveniles. They felt that the police department and citizens were being let down by a lenient judiciary that has failed to take firm action on these offenders. Many others at the meeting agreed and expressed fear that Bay St. Louis was no longer a town, "where you don't have to lock the doors at night."

Criticism of the condition of derelict property was expressed at length. Carver pointed out the city has done much to solve this problem but that the process required more money and manpower than his office could provide. The mayor and those present agreed that pride in the community was required to solve this problem.

The problem of unsanitary conditions at shopping centers also received attention. Complaints of rats and unkept grounds in the rear of the Bay Shopping Center were expressed.

Carver concluded the meeting by thanking those who participated. The mayor said he was pleased with the size of the turnout and planned to make the Community Involvement Meeting a monthly affair.

At present no definite date has been established for the next meeting.

Safety signs are targets of abuse.

Garden Club distributes community liberty trees

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club distributed 100 Liberty trees throughout the community this week as part of their HANDS Bicentennial project.

Fifty pear trees will be planted along U. S. Highway 90, at the senior citizens center, and on other public grounds by Felix Seeger, Bay St. Louis superintendent of public grounds.

In Waveland, 30 trees will be planted at the Waveland hospital station, elementary school, and other public areas by Mrs. William Gaudet, beautification chairman.

Schools in the two cities were also recipients of the Liberty trees. They included Waveland Elementary School, Bay Junior High, North Bay Elementary School, Bay Senior High, and Our Lady of the Gulf School.

Senior citizens sing

The Senior Citizens Choir sang at the Lutheran Church of the Pines in Waveland last Sunday at the regular worship service.

A fellowship with refreshments was held following the service.

"We hope they can join us again soon," Decker said. "It took four months before their busy singing schedule permitted them to visit us. I recommend the spirit of these seniors of our community to the worship life of any congregation."

The Senior Citizens Choir is made of seniors from Hancock County.

Senior citizens enjoy Mardi Gras activities

A Mardi Gras theme was used throughout the Senior Citizens and Day Care meeting Tuesday at Valena C. Jones Center.

Those attending were entertained by the musical sounds of Alan and Diane Riley, a popular nightclub act on the coast. Carnival masks and attire was also worn by many of the group.

Special recognition was given to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Brumfield of Demotulzin St. in the city who recently moved here from Gloster, Miss. The occasion was their 46th wedding anniversary.

The group sang several patriotic songs which they will repeat Thursday night for the Bicentennial Wagon train guests.

Future of agriculture reflects economy

The Economic Outlook for Mississippi agriculture for 1976 was reviewed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service during the annual III by '83 Progress and Outlook Conference in Jackson Feb. 19.

The goal of the 10-year III by '83 program is to increase the value of farm production in Mississippi to $3 billion annually by 1983.

This outlook information, together with farm records and other data, is important to farmers making current decisions, said Robert L. Williams, Extension agriculture economist. Since agriculture is a major part of the state's economy, outlook information is also useful to many other businessmen, he added.

The agricultural outlook necessarily reflects inflation, recession and other factors in the overall economy. The outlook for some farm-enterprises is brighter than for others, however.

Here are highlights of what is expected for Mississippi agriculture in 1976:

Cotton planted in Mississippi this year is expected to increase to about 1.4 million acres compared with less than 1.2 million in 1975. Supplies of cotton are extremely short and demand is improving. Prices will probably remain strong and could average more than 50 cents per pound for the 1976 crop.

Soybean growers are expected to plant about 3 million acres this year compared with 3.2 million in 1975. Soybean supplies are large and will likely keep downward pressure on soybean prices through most of 1976. An extremely short 1976 soybean crop would probably allow prices to increase. However, prices will likely remain near the $4.50-$5 level through most of 1976, unless some drastic changes occur.

Food grains grown in Mississippi are rice and wheat. Under the new rice program passed recently by Congress, Mississippi growers are expected to plant about 175,000 acres, the same as last year. Developments between now and the planting season could cause this figure to change. Winter wheat now growing in the state is estimated at 220,000 acres, five percent below the 1974 acreage. Both wheat and rice supplies are up substantially from year earlier levels and this should keep some downward pressure on prices.

Mississippi feed crops include corn, sorghum and hay. Farmers are expected to plant more acres of corn this year as compared to 1975. Sorghum acreage will probably remain unchanged. Prices received for both corn and grain sorghum may average at slightly below the prices received in 1975.

Growing vegetables for market is one way many families can earn extra money to relieve the pressures of inflation. More vegetables are expected to be grown under contract in the state this year. This should cause income from vegetables to increase.

The overall outlook for meat animals is improving. The picture for beef is improving while the pork situation may not be as good as a year ago, although it will remain in good shape. Beef prices have already begun to strengthen, as a result of the first decline in the number of beef cattle in several years. This trend in strengthening beef prices should continue. Pork prices may not average as high as last year's $48 per hundredweight, but prices will probably remain at a fairly high level.

BE A HELPFUL CITIZEN!

You, the citizen, can help eliminate a major problem in our community—LITTERING. Trash and litter thrown on our streets, into our ditches and on vacant lots destroys the looks of our community, reflects on the character of our people, and spoils the beauty and cleanliness of our surroundings. It can sometimes be a fire hazard and a threat to health and safety.

Littering costs the American taxpayers more than a half-billion dollars yearly. The cost of keeping our own community in as presentable a condition as possible amounts to a sizeable amount of money.

YOU CAN HELP IN GAINING FOR US THE REPUTATION OF BEING THE CLEANEST CITY ON THE GULF COAST!

(This message is being sent to you by the Clean-Up and Beautification Department of the City of Bay St. Louis in cooperation with the various merchants throughout the community.)

Her Majesty wore a sheath type sleeveless gown of black lame with narrow bands of mink. Framing her face was a gold medallion collar topped a black cathedral length train edged in silver and gold with scrolls of gold sequins.

The mantle was appliqued with the gold letters "SA" outlined with gold sequins. A plumed headpiece and silver sceptre completed her attire.

The King wore a costume similar in color and material to that of the Queen.

The ball began with the introduction of Lee Klein and Mrs. A.M. Thomas, 1975, King and Queen, and Monarchs of St. Ann's first annual ball. Joseph Servat, Master of Ceremonies then introduced members of the royal court of 1976.

The court made their entrance to the song of Mardi Gras, "If Ever I Cease To Love," with Mrs. Carol Mitchell providing the musical score.

Diamondhead celebrates Carnival with floating, rolling parades

King Akua Kai (God of the Sea) will join King Kolepa (King of Golf), following a meeting of the courts on Saturday at Diamondhead.

The court of King Akua Kai will leave Diamondhead's Yacht Club early in the day, and in a manner befitting their role, pay homage to the Bay of St. Louis, and mess around in boats.

King Kolepa will rule over land activities, leaving the Country Club with his queen about 1 p.m., en route to the Yacht Club.

The aquanauts will return to the Yacht Club around 2:45 p.m., the expected time of King Kolepa's arrival.

Throws will be made from ship to shore, and shore to ship.

The public is invited, and Diamondhead authorities state the best viewing area is between the sales lodge and the front gate.

Lead float in the land parade will house the 1975 Diamondhead Queen, Miss Kim Corales. She will be followed by a parade of golf carts, walking groups, horses, bands, and floats.

Included among the entries are Hancock North Central

High School Band, three equestrian groups, clown groups, Shrine motorcycle groups, Diamondhead members' golf carts decorated as floats, approximately eight floats, scout marching groups, two Mardi Gras walking clubs, Diamondhead Fire Department and others, plus 23 water floats which will tour the Bay of St. Louis and return to Diamondhead.

A fish fry will follow at 4 p.m. to which the public is also invited. Tickets here are $3 per plate.

Bicentennial blue ribbon

Krewe of Apollo Float, "Let Freedom Ring" was judged best float of parade, Sunday, at Nereids Mardi Gras event in Waveland.

Waveland transformed into Hawaiian festival

King Nereus X, ruler of the Mystic Krewe of Nereids, lent royal presence to Mardi Gras-Waveland style Sunday, as he officiated over his royal court on the reviewing stand. To reign for one year, Nereus Lucien Gex toasted his queen, Doris X, whose identity is never revealed, while she paused in front of the Krewe's reviewing stand. Following the toast, Queen Doris continued in review of her subjects, acknowledging their cheers with slightly inclined head, and graceful scepter motions.

She received the Key of the City from Mayor John Longo when pausing to receive homage from the city. New Orleans pianist Ronnie Kole, the parade's grand marshal, rode ahead of the royal presence also stopping at both the Nereids and City of Waveland reviewing stands for the official toast.

Saluting Hawaii—Our 50th State—the parade had nine major floats, all with masked krewe members, and six maid floats.

Many of the private entry floats followed the Bicentennial theme, and one, krewe float, sustained a minor breakdown. After quick repairs it rejoined the parade intermingling with the Krewe of Hancock's parade.

In the parade's only casualty reported, Glen Cochran, II, of Biloxi, knocked out a couple of teeth and punctured the palate of his mouth with a toy flute, caught off an earlier float, when he fell while scuffling for favors. His mother said Tuesday however he was in good shape and intended to return to school Wednesday.

Hawaiian gods was chosen as the parade's best float entry.

Second best float honors went to USA, 200th Birthday Cake, followed by Happy Birthday, USA.

Bay High School's Tiger Band captured first place in band entries; St. Martin's, second; Harrison Central, third.

St. Clare's precision marching group was selected as number one in that category, and the marching maskers category winners were the Hats, and the Marching Pools, in first and second slots respectively.

Horse blue ribbon honors went to the Gulfport Mounted Patrol, followed closely by the Diamondhead Riders in second place. Individual honors were granted Kathy Haas, Milton Ladner, and Jan Bordelon in hat sequence.

Pages to the queen were Michelle Lynn Askran, Lelita Dawn Octi, Philip Hays Hart, and Samuel Drake Waimen.

Krewe maid floats represented Lanai, Molokai (butterfly), Maui (waterfall), Oahu (coral from the sea), Hawaii (orchid), Kauai (bird of paradise).

Krewe floats were: pineapple, Molokai, Maui, Oahu, Hawaii, Kauai, Hawaii—the 50th State.

Spiers-Cuevas

St. Ann's Catholic Church, Clermont Harbor, was the setting Saturday, Feb. 14, for the wedding of Miss Darnell Marie Spiers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hayward Spiers Sr., to Alex Elbert Cuevas, son of Joe Cuevas of Necaise Crossing, and Mrs. Effie Cuevas, White Cypress.

Rev. Canisius Hayes, celebrant of the Nuptial Mass, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar flanked by standing baskets of white flowers and greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal empire style gown of chiffon and lace over bridal satin fashioned with a cathedral length train edged in lace. Her elbow length veil of illusion fell from a lace Juliet cap. She carried a bouquet of white roses and baby's breath.

Miss Carolyn Spiers attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Diana Ramond and Ida May Necaise.

They wore pink crepe floor length empire style gowns trimmed with lace and carried nosegays of miniature pink and white carnations, lavender pompoms and baby's breath.

Miss Hazel Spiers, sister of the bride, served as flower girl. She wore a long pink crepe dress fashioned with a floral print bodice and carried a pink basket of pink, lavender and white flowers.

Donald Cuevas attended his brother as best man. Wayne Cuevas, brother of the groom, and Randall Necaise were groomsmen. Joseph H. Spiers Jr. and David Necaise served as ushers. Dwayne Cuevas, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Terrence Asher, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and a selection of nuptial music during the ceremony. A reception was held at Harbor Inn.

Mrs. Spiers received guests, wearing a long pale pink knit dress with matching jacket and a white carnation corsage.

The mother of the groom wore a long rose pink knit dress and a corsage of white roses.

The bride's table, overlaid with a lace cloth, was centered with a four-tiered cake trimmed with pale pink spun sugar roses topped with an arrangement of sugar bells and a nosegay of ribbon and lily-of-the-valley. Candelabra entwined with pink and white carnations were on either side.

For her traveling outfit the bride chose a green knit suit. A yellow orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

The couple will make their home at Necaise Crossing.

Rev. Patrick Hayes, associate pastor, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attended by her sister Miss Nanette Mutter as maid of honor.

James Riette, New Orleans, brother of the groom, was best man.

A reception for members of the immediate families was held at the home of the bride. The couple will reside at 212 Main Street, Bay St. Louis.

Mythical creatures herald Krewe of Triton

TRITON PARADE TO ROLL ON MARDI GRAS DAY
A hoard of mythical marine creatures, half man and half fish, will surge from the Bay of St. Louis when the Krewe of Triton will offer their second annual Mardi Gras parade March 2 at 2 p.m.
The 10-float New Orleans style parade will include marching bands, mounted lieutenants, richly-attired officers, and a host of other various marching and riding groups from throughout the Gulf Coast area.
The Bay-Waveland men's Krewe will parade down the south lane of U.S. Highway 90. The parade will form in the parking lot of Our Shopping Center in Waveland, and move eastward to Dunbar Ave. in Bay St. Louis where it will disband.
In the spirit of the day, the Krewe will sponsor a pre-parade costume contest which will be open to the public at no cost. Registration for this event will begin at noon at the Triton reviewing stand on Highway 90. Judging of the contestants will begin promptly at 1 p.m., with trophies being awarded at 2 p.m. for the best individual, couple, and group costumes.
Trophies will also be awarded for the best float, the best marching group, and the best riding group in the parade. These events are also open to the public at no cost and any theme is acceptable.
Interested persons should call 467-7188 immediately as pre-registration for these events is required. Presentation of the parade trophies will take place immediately following the parade in the parking lot of the Bay Mall shopping center on Dunbar Ave. Participating bands and groups are asked to please have a representative on hand for these presentations.
Highlight of the parade will be the second annual Triton Marching Band competition which last year drew bands from Louisiana and Mississippi.
The identity of King Triton II, will remain a secret until that monarch boards his float to greet his subjects. Last year's ruler, E. P. Exnicious, will then step down to become the first past king of Triton. Following Mardi Gras tradition, the identity of the Captain and Officers of Triton are never revealed, and all are fully masked during public appearances.

The public is invited to come out early and make the day a time of revelry and fun for young and old. The Krewe promises rich rewards in the form of specially cast doubloons of silver and gold along with trinkets and beads by the thousands.
The judges for the day's events will be Mrs. Robert Guyton, Hattiesburg; Vester Emerson, Biloxi; David Sandige, Gulfport and Davis Williams, Bay St. Louis.
Mrs. Guyton is the former Katherine Cole Taylor of New Albany. In high school, she was named Miss Southern Majorette and was four times named to the Mississippi Lions All-State Band as a majorette. Mrs. Guyton has taught dancing and twirling and is a graduate of the University of Mississippi. In 1958 she was first alternate in the Miss Mississippi Pageant. Emerson is manager of Edgewater Plaza. He is a graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi and was band director for five years at North Forest High School in Hattiesburg prior to moving to the Gulf Coast four years ago.
Sandige is director of the Gulfport East Viking Band. He is a graduate of Memphis State where he received a BA in Music. He received a Masters in music from the University of Mississippi and has been directing high school bands for the past 18 years. He taught at Bruce, Hazelhurst and Clarksdale before taking over the Gulfport East Viking Band three years ago.
Williams is band director at St. Stanislaus High School. A native of Natchez, he received both BA and Masters degrees in music from Northeast Louisiana University. He taught at Louisiana Training Institute, Monroe, La. prior to coming to St. Stanislaus nine years ago.

Yellow brick road is taking shape in Lakeshore

By JAKE JACOB

A Yellow Brick Road is being constructed inside Beat One, Hancock County.

In spite of new building codes and advanced highway construction standards, the students of Gulfview School, Lakeshore, are firmly convinced their Yellow Brick thoroughfare will get wide voter acceptance this April 8, 9, and 10.

On those dates, Lisa Walsh, in the role of "Dorothy" will wind her way through the perils of Munchkin Land, defy the Wicked Witch of the West, accept the guidance of the Good Witch of the North, in making her bid to see the mighty Wizard of Oz.

To present Frank L. Baum's classic for the three days, a cast of 110 will perform in the school's new gymnasium.

At one end of the gym, the house in Kansas has already taken shape, and is on trial runs "spinning through the air" following its being torn away by a tornado. Opposite, the Land of Oz runs completely across the huge structure, already a fantasy of gilt and sparkle.

The Home Economics Department, under command of Mrs. Janet Ferguson, has charge of some 425 yards of satin costume material; 8,000 sequins, piles of hats, 250 snap sets, and 50 yards of elastic enough to stretch around the entire school.

Parents of the 21 soldiers, 18 poppies, the showers of munchkins, the tin man (whose suit is of real tin), the lion, the scarecrow, and the awesome wizard himself, are also spending hours with needles flashing, and kids squealing in protest as costumes are fit, refit, and fit again. "The corridors are 'alive' with snatches of conversation, 'You follow him on stage,' 'I KNOW what I've got to do, have you learned YOUR lines yet?' and so forth.

Gulfview is getting excited and ready to go to Oz. No advanced ticket information has yet been released but school authorities said yesterday they expect about 3,000 plus people to see the production.

Kantcha Ketchum

By L.S. (Doc) Elliott

Another cold front reached this section over the past weekend preceded by about four days of perfect weather making fishing impossible for both fresh and salt water fish. Before the front was rain.

Now that we are at the end of February the weather should get back to normal. Good old summer time shouldn't be far off. In summer we can go soft crabbing, floundering, play golf and participate in all kinds of sports. There is no better place to enjoy these sports than on the Gulf Coast. With the Carnival Ball next week and two parades coming up we should have plenty to do. Let's make our visitors have a good time.

This article was sent to me from Italy and was taken from an International Paper clipping. It's about using maggots for fresh water fishing. They claim maggots are the most popular fresh water fishing baits in England and Japan. Maggots are produced in a factory and packed in a jar. The manager of the factory says they are "real thorough-breds." It's the size that counts. If you feed them well, you get good, big maggots, which in turn produce big blow flies. After a week or so the skin of the maggot will grow rigid, and it will go into a cocoon-like state. It turns dark brown and inside the maggot transforms itself into a blowfly. As a blowfly it is nearly as large as an American horsefly. It will live about two weeks. Those to be sold are put into two gallon containers. They sell for 50 cents (about $1.00) per pint over the counter. This is news to me. Also must be news to you? What won't fish eat?

Bobby Carver and Mike Morel reported catching a large string of green trout at Mullet Bayou one day last week. They were using earth worms and live minnows for bait. No telling what they would have caught if they had used maggots like we were writing about?

Advice to the young fisherman: Bass and perch are biting most anywhere. Catching them is one of the easiest ways of catching fish. Get a perch pole, learn how to rig it up. If you don't know come around to see me, I'll teach you. You can take a small mess net, drag it in roadside ditches and get small minnows, small crayfish, tad poles, etc. Any of our bayous can be fished from the bank. They are full of bass and perch waiting to be caught. You can spend a whole day of fun at no cost, and help out on the family budget. If you are a boy scout you can earn a fishing merit badge easily. Ever think of that?

Speaking of bass (green trout) and perch at this time when they are beginning to spawn they are gluttons for nice size, big minnows.

Did you know that mullet which are usually caught in cast nets can be caught while fishing with earth worms up our local bayous?

The three old time fresh water fishermen, Alden Mauffray, Ray Garner and Doc Elliott made a nice catch of bass last Wednesday. They were caught on surface plugs and fly rods. The fish were hitting like old times. Caught them in the morning when the tide was falling. Bass fishing is improving right along.

Was glad to hear that Dick Mestayer is safe and sound. He was in Guatemala when the earth quake hit. Dick was in that country buying hard woods. Better stay in the good old U.S.A. It's much safer.

August Rauxet and our old fishing buddy Dr. Emile Bertucci reported catching a nice bunch of bass the other day. Doc is from New Orleans and has a home at Fenton, Miss. When this twosome don't get 'em they can't be gotten. August said they were hitting like no body's business. They do both casting and fly fishing. Might see you soon, Doc.

Did you know that at one time there was a closed season on Bass and Perch in Mississippi? Had to go to La. to do our fishing and Salt Bayou was a popular place to catch them in those days.

First signee

Jack Lewis, son of Mrs. Annie Mae Lewis of Hancock North Central became the first 1976 signee for the Pearl River College Basketball Wildcats. Lewis played for Hancock's coach Roland Ladner year before last, leading the Hawks with a 23 point average and 15 rebounds. He won positions on the All Conference, All District, All South State Tournament Teams, as well as the Bay High Tournament. Jack was signed by Coach Charles Rea.

To show our appreciation for making our opening a success, we are having a

Students reminded of deadlines

CLINTON—Students in the Bay St. Louis area planning on attending Mississippi College for the 1976-77 school year are reminded that April 1 is the deadline for applying for financial aid.

Dr. Van D. Quick, vice-president for student affairs and chairman of the financial aids committee, said applications "making the deadline will be given priority, while those coming in after that date will be processed only if money is available."

At the time the student picks up his form for financial assistance at the college, Dr. Quick also advises him to secure the Parent's Confidential Statement, the Student Financial Statement and the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant forms and have them completed and mailed to the proper authorities.

Concerning the BEOG forms, Dr. Quick said, "We are urging that every undergraduate student apply for BEOG unless he is absolutely certain that he is not eligible to receive such funds."

Forms and additional information concerning financial assistance can be secured from the Financial Aids Office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

TRAVEL TIPS AND TRICKS

If you are hungry when you board your flight, sit near the galley. It is forward in first class and aft in economy. Generally, passengers seated closest to the galley are served first.

If you are sensitive to noise, choose a seat next to a window.

or in front of the wings. Jet noise travels back from the engines and is louder in the aft section.

Two CEHS students win superior

Sharon Anderson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Anderson of Long Beach, and Elizabeth Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Campbell of Pass Christian, won Superior ratings at the Mississippi State Platform Events contest held Feb. 21, at Mississippi College in Clinton.

Both CEHS actresses were contestants in the previous district speech and drama contests held at University of Southern Mississippi, Hattiesburg where Miss Anderson earned the best Supporting Actress award.

Miss Anderson won a Superior rating in Original Oratory with a speech on apathy, and an Excellent rating in Interpretive Reading of an excerpt from the Greek drama "Medea." Miss Campbell won a Superior rating in Interpretive Reading with "The Ten Worst Things About a Male" by Jean Kerr.

Miss Campbell and Miss Anderson had leading parts in "Bell, Book and Candle," the fall production at CEHS, and both took part in "Waiting for the Bus" at the District competition. Miss Anderson is a member of the National Honor Society, president of the senior class, an honor roll student, and was chosen Student of the Month by the Bay-Waveland Altrusa Club.

Miss Campbell is editor of the school paper and served as school chairman of the citrus sale, a school fund-raising project. Her hobbies are painting and sailing.
